

Bubba's Brain Teaser

Answer will be printed in the next issue of Concrete Today.

Question:

A part of the body is hidden in each of the following sentences. The first sentence contains "head." Can you find the rest?

1. The ad is for Monday's sale.
2. The tour group can go to either country.
3. My car makes funny noises sometimes.
4. Sarah and Tony are getting married.
5. That casino seems shady.
6. Can't you see that Hank needs help?
7. The sea is so calm out here.
8. Would you like to go surfing, Erin?

Answer to the last issue's brain teaser:

Fred ran a flag making business. Things were looking bleak when, out of the blue, someone called from the Paraguayan Embassy. They needed an urgent consignment of 1000 Paraguayan flags by the following week.

Fred got to work right away. He got a picture of the current Paraguayan flag, got hold of the required cloth and he and his staff worked without stopping until the flags were delivered.

The business was saved, or so he thought.

Unfortunately, the Embassy refused to pay and returned them all.

Fred has now lost his business, but why?

ANSWER: Paraguay's flag has two different sides. Fred's picture only gave one side and that design was used front and back. Had he used a real flag for reference he could have turned it over and seen the difference.

Specializing in Waterproofing Systems and Barriers for:

- Concrete, ICF, and Block walls
- Concrete decks
- Tunnel and Vault waterproofing
- Beneath slab vapor and moisture protection
- Shotcrete construction

Featuring:

- Water-based spray or roller applied membranes
- Complete range of drainage composites for walls, decks, and footers
- Water-stops both bentonite and injection tube system
- Tough and durable geo-membrane protection courses
- Low pressure crack repair systems

eipro™
Waterproofing Systems

800-882-1896 • www.eproserv.com

